WATER CARNIVAL POSTPONED

Willard, N. M., Sept. 12—The first Annual Water Carnival, announced to be held in Willard, September 17th and 18th, has been postponed for a couple of weeks. The Dunlavy pump could not be put in operation by that date, and the plant on the Peter McKissor farm, adjoining town on the west is out of commission. It was thought advisable by the committee in charge of the affair to postpone the Water Carnival until these two pumps could be put in working order.

The purpose of the fair was to demonstrate to visitors, that Willard has the water for irrigation, and to conduct this demonstration close to town, in order that all who visited the town might go home with a favorable impression.

Ernest Brickly, secretary of the Commercial club, wishes to be quoted as saying that "the Water Carnival will positively be held at a date to be announced the latter part of the month, or as soon as these two pumps can be put in working order."

There are several other pumping plants in this vicinity that are pumping daily, among them the one on the E. A. Vonderveld ranch and the one put in this spring by the Dilley boys, Charley and Roy. They are both more than five miles from town, however and it was hardly practicable to transport the visitors that distance for the demonstrations.

A farmer may not be able to wear a white collar at his work, but you bet he is boss of his own business. He is about the only man who is privileged to stand around and sass the railroads or tell the politicians to go to the dinky dinks and stay there. He may be the Man with the Hoe, but, these days, he can use his hoe to cut out things that do not suit him.

Thirty acres of grazing land is necessary to raise one steer and it is claimed that ten people can live very comfortably off that same area under cultivation. Beyond the railroads will gain a great deal by the settlement of the old ranch country because a carload of grain and produce can be shipped from the same acreage that was formerly capable of running only one steer.—Field & Farm.

There will be a new man in town next week. 47:2p

Looking at You, Joe

Joe Fehmer, who is working at present at Pearson, Chihuahua, Mexico, sent a box of Mexican cigars to Neal Jensen, asking him to distribute them among his friends here. The editor was kindly remembered among the rest, and is convinced that Joe knows a good thing when he sees it. Muchas gracias Don Jose!

Progressiveness strikes in unexpected places. Delegate to Congress W. H. Andrews, in an interview in the Cincinnati Times-Star, the paper of Charles P. Taft, brother of President William H. Taft, favors the direct primary in New Mexico for the selection of United States senator. The Republican convention in the platform it adopts at Las Vegas must pay heed to the spirit of the times—New Mexican.

Apparently it depends on what state Delegate "Lick'em" is in, when he does his talking, as to what he says.

IT has leaked out that the Democrats of the County are contemplating reorganization which will mean a committee in every precinct. It may be true but we have also heard that it would be hard to find a democrat in a few of the Precincts.—Estancia Herald.

This is news indeed for the Herald to publish on Thursday, September 8 (Thursday was the 7th,) when the appointment of the precinct chairmen was made by the Central Committee on Saturday, September 2. This is news up-to-date for the try-weekly.

FINE CORN FROM RILEY

C. L. Riley brought the News as fine a half dozen ears of field corn as we have ever seen. These were grown on Mr. Riley's farm, four miles west of town, without irrigation, the field consisting of twenty acres. A splendid sample of broom corn accompanied the corn. Mr. Riley says the only trouble with the broom corn is he didn't plant enough of it. It proves however that broom corn will do well here and is a money making crop for the valley. The load of watermelons, Mr. Riley brought in with him, were sold in short order, as there never was grown sweeter nor better melons than Estancia Valley dry farmed melons.

Regarding School Pupils

At the last term of the grand jury of Quay County a number of complaints were made by local school authorities on account of violations of the school laws. At the beginning of a term of school it may be of interest to call attention to the laws for the protection of school children. It is unlawful in this territory to permit minors and school children to loiter about saloons and places where liquor is sold, or to engage in games at such places or at places where tobacco is offered for sale. It is also unlawful to sell to or give to minors under eighteen years or to school children intoxicating liquor or tobacco in any form, without parents consent. Children of school age must attend school; and must be vaccinated. These are laws which the school authorities in this territory are trying to enforce. District Attorney McElroy has decided views upon their enforcement, and says that the laws for protection of school children must be obeyed. —Tucumcari News.

S. G. Cartwright and wife left yesterday for Santa Fe in their E. M. F. car.

Miss Alma Simmons will set as hostess to a party of Estancia young people at her mountain ranch home above Tajique for the next few days, the party going up this morning.

C. B. Howell and family and I. F. Decker and family will go to Manzano today, where they will spend a couple of daps coming and taking in the feast.

Mrs. Ruth Williams stopped over Tuesday night until Wednesday noon on her way from Cloudercroft to Santa Fe. She spent the day here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Clark of Punta, who came in to meet her.

J. J. Watkins, the speed merchant of Willard, and family, left yesterday in their auto for Kingman, Arizona, where Mr. Watkins has accepted a position as manager of the hardware division in a department store. Jerome has many friends not only in the south part of the valley but around Estancia as well, who hate to see him go, but expect to see him back soon.

GOAT PUTS WATER TANK IN DITCH

The switch engine of the N. M. Central, commonly known as the goat, took a streak of "bucking" yesterday and succeeded in sending one of the water tank-cars crashing through the platform along the east side of the Hughes Mercantile Company warehouse, tearing a hole through the outer wall, and ripped out some of the joists underneath the floor. The wheels of the car, after having left the track did not seem particular as to their choice of a path, tearing up ties and cinders in great shape. After some work on the part of the wrecking crew, the car was again placed on the track, not much the worse for the experience, but the cavity still yawns, where the platform used to was.

Today is short, yesterday is gone, tomorrow may never come. If you have anything to do, get busy.
